“Who told God”

“How many times in life I have to wonder why?

Inherited through Genes so it was manifested from the beginning of my time.

One hundred days and nights, I lie crying from the pain inside,

Ready to die because what was the real reason why.

Feeling like a burden, my emotions are high,

Who told God that I would be strong enough to survive a disease that ran through my blood like little stabbing crescent moons deeply invested.

So, tell me, God—was strength the reason why?
Was I created to be strong enough to change
the challenges that continue to rise from a disease that will plague families until the end of time ?”

Who told God!

Written by: Juanita McClain